

International Society for Quality-of-Life Studies 2021 Virtual Conference: Presenter Instructions and Preliminary Schedule

Dear Conference Participant,

The ISQOLS 2021 Virtual Conference Organizers are pleased to present the presenter instructions and preliminary conference schedule for the 2021 International Society for Quality-of-Life Studies Virtual Conference, taking place August 25-28 (pre-conference 23, 24). Please read the full details below. This document contains presenter instructions and our preliminary schedule.

The conference organizers have tried to account for the fact that presenters are located in different time zones, ranging from Wellington (GMT +12) to Los Angeles (GMT -7). As we do not expect everyone to be awake during the entire conference (except for the moderators), we will record the presentations and make them available on the conference platform (only accessible for registered participants). If you are a registered participant, you can access the recordings at a time that is convenient for you. However, we do recommend logging in to the live sessions when possible. There will be time for discussion at the end of each session and we encourage you to interact with all participants as you would in an in-person conference setting.

If your abstract has been accepted as either a session presentation or a poster, please check the program below and e-mail us at office@isqols.org if you are missing your contribution in the program or if there are any schedule conflicts. To find your name, use the “find” function on your desktop using “ctrl”+“f” and enter your last name. Click “find all” to see all of the locations for your name and presentation. The deadline for corrections is July 28, 2021. The final program will be made available by mid-August, along with instructions for how to officially login to the conference site.

If you have any questions, please contact us at office@isqols.org.

We look forward to your contributions!

Sincerely,

2021 Conference Organizing Committee

Conference Platform and Schedule

All sessions will take place on a virtual conference platform, RD Mobile. The link to our conference platform will be sent to your email address a few weeks before the conference start date, with full instructions on how to login and access the site.

On this virtual conference platform, the live sessions will be facilitated via <https://zoom.us/>, an app that you can access from your web browser and install on your computer or from your mobile/tablet devices. By mid-August, presenters will be sent the Zoom link for their specific presenter session(s) via an email from Zoom.

The final program will contain Zoom links to the different sessions, which you can access after logging in to the virtual conference platform. We will send more instructions as we near the conference start date.

All times in the program are Central European Summer Time Zone (see schedule chart on page 5). Use this link to find your time zone (enter CEST or Rotterdam first and then your city)

International Society for Quality-of-Life Studies 2021 Virtual Conference: Presenter Instructions and Preliminary Schedule

Live Session Presenter Instructions

Every session can be accessed through the Zoom link in the program. These links cannot be found in the preliminary program, but will be available in the final conference program (sent to you via email by mid-August). In the meantime, consider a practice round with other presenters in your session to familiarize yourself with the Zoom platform <https://zoom.us/>.

Papers have been grouped by time zones and common themes, with (mostly) 4 paper presentations scheduled for each session during 100-minute sessions. Each paper has 15 minutes for presentation and 10 minutes for questions and discussion. In order to ensure that each presenter has the full amount of time to present, please plan to arrive (virtually) 10 minutes before the start of the session.

During the presentation, you will be able to share your screen (e.g., Powerpoint presentation) with the other participants in a session. We recommend preparing your presentation in either Powerpoint or .pdf format. You do not need to send us your presentation, as you will be sharing it from your own screen. However, we will suggest that you upload your presentation to our Conference Resources Page on our isqols.org website ahead of time so others may be able to access it before or after your session. More details will be sent about this resource page in the coming weeks.

The moderator during your session is designated as a timekeeper for your session. The timekeeper will ensure each session does not take more than the allotted amount of time.

Live Session Participant Instructions

All live sessions will be posted with corresponding Zoom links on the conference platform. Be sure to familiarize yourself with the zoom platform: <https://zoom.us/> so you are prepared to watch the sessions. All participants must mute themselves upon entry. To preserve bandwidth, we also ask that all participants keep their video off during the session. If you have questions or comments during the session, please use the chat bar so you do not interrupt the presenter. There will be a time of Q&A at the end of each session. The presenters may choose to allow participants to unmute and show their video or simply read questions and comments from the chat bar. Please be considerate of time restrictions when asking questions or making comments.

Poster Presentations

If your abstract has been accepted as a “poster presentation”, we ask you to prepare a virtual poster to be presented during the conference. The poster should contain the main points of your research paper and should not exceed 800 words. Please include your paper’s title, corresponding authors, and institutional affiliation(s) at the top of the poster. We recommend you prepare the poster on a PowerPoint slide and save that to a .pdf or .jpeg/.png image. To see samples of last year’s virtual posters, please visit: ISQOLS - 2020 Conference Poster Submissions and click on any of the submissions.

- Optional video poster presentation:

In addition to the visual poster, authors of accepted posters have the option to also create a pre-recorded video presentation. The video presentation allows authors to give a brief (5-10 minute) overview of their research, as they would in a normal conference poster session.

If you do not have your own video recording and editing software, we recommend using your computer webcam and a program (like zoom.us) to create a pre-recorded video. Only .mp4 video formats will be accepted and should not exceed 2 GB. Please send your .mp4 video file to office@isqols.org using the free sharing file service: WeTransfer. Deadline is August 1. Visit <https://wetransfer.com/> to learn more.

Conference attendees will be able to access the poster images and videos on their own time during the conference week.

- Optional poster live presentation:

In addition to the visual poster, authors of accepted posters have the option to also present their research in a live session to take place on August 24 in front of member(s) of the Conference Scientific Committee and general conference participants. Authors will have 15 minutes to present, with a time reserved for questions and answers. To participate in the live poster session, authors will need to register at this sign-up link by August 1.

Conference Social Options

All conference participants are invited to enjoy our virtual meeting space anytime during the conference week. Using the platform, gather.com, we have created an online place that looks and feels very much like our conference experiences. When you log-in, you will be able to enter the meeting space, using your webcam, and interact with other members like you would at our conferences. This will give you a chance to interact with ISQOLS members much like you would at our in-person events. Click this link to view a demo of our space. When you log-in, you can create your own profile and avatar and explore the conference “rooms”. During the conference, you can even schedule meet-ups with fellow participants in the gather space. We will also have specific gather events scheduled throughout the conference week. More details will be available on the final conference program.

POZE Workshop (206) by Cornelia Walther

Session Title	Description
POZE Workshop	Instructor: Cornelia Walther Scope: This workshop offers an introduction to the POZE methodology, which addresses aspirations, emotions, thoughts and sensations within a holistic framework of individual empowerment. Theory is combined with practical exercises to help participants understand the logic, and to experience its added value first-hand. It concludes with the opportunity for mutual sharing of these experiences. Audience: Whether you feel you live underneath your potential, or if you are satisfied with the status quo, this workshop may be for you. Human existence is a composite of aspirations, emotions, thoughts, and sensations. These must be in synch for personal wellbeing, and harmonious social interactions. This session proposes a novel approach to look at the core drivers of our being, and their interplay. While aimed at the personal experience the resulting insights and thoughts may serve your professional approach. Agenda: Introduction in the POZE paradigm of aspirations, emotions, thoughts and sensations. The Why, Who, How and What of life and how they relate to these four layers of the human being. (20 min) Exercise Attention P-O-Z-E (10 min) Art of Awareness. Drawing exercise Now-But-Then. Sharing and discussion (30 min) Exercise Re-center using PO-ZE (5 min) Conclusion/Q&A (10 min) Homework Letter to Self (10 min) Feedback on the session using the Quadrant (Like/Worked. Wish. Questions. Ideas) (5 min)
