Mohsen Joshanloo

- Senior Lecturer
- Ph.D. in Psychology (Victoria University of Wellington)
- Centre for Positive Psychology, University of Melbourne

- I am a personality and socio-cultural psychologist. I did my PhD at Victoria University of Wellington in 2013. Before joining the University of Melbourne I was an associate professor of psychology at Keimyung University in South Korea. I have published widely on cultural aspects of mental well-being using data from countries across 5 continents. A vast and growing network of international colleagues support me in my research. I have extensive experience in a broad range of data analysis techniques used in the social sciences.
